TINSEL POSTCARDS

HELD UP

Editor Herald:—
In the past two days some 800

tinsel post cards have been received and posted at this office which are unmailable and will be sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington. All tinsel cards must be enclosed in envelopes, securely sealed and have two cents in stamps affixed in order to be mailable in the United States.

It is hoped dealers in these cards will notify purchasers of these facts as the non-delivery often causes disappointments and misunderstandings. Very respectfully

GENERAL MANAGER BARR IS STRICKEN

Was in North Station at Time and Was Hurriedly Removed to a Sanitarium

Frank Barr, third vice president and general manager of the Boston and Maine railroad, is in a serious condition at a private sanitarium at 38 Newbury street Boston, where he was taken yesterday afternoon after suffering an attack of illness during which he fell to the floor in the North station.
The precise nature of his ailment is not known as the physicians at the sanitarium decline to comment on a mystery that surrounds his confinement there.
Mr. Barr was in the North station yesterday afternoon on his way home to Winchester when those sitting in the waiting room near him noticed him acting strangely. Investigation showed that he had been taken ill and while the station employees were preparing to call a physician, he was seen to rise to his feet, walk a short distance and then fall to the floor. A taxicab was immediately summoned and the sufferer was whisked away at a rapid rate of speed to the Newbury street Sanitarium. His family was notified of his condition by telephone.
At the sanitarium last night Dr. Jackson said that he expects Mr. Barr to be out and restored to health within the next several days.
The head nurse at the institution later stated he was resting well and that there was every indication of an early recovery. Neither of them would say definitely what the patient was afflicted with.

Mr. Barr was born at Nashua, N. H., and was educated in the public schools there. He married Miss Alice J. Cooper of Nashua, N. H., Nov. 11 1875. Since leaving school he has held various positions with the Worcester and Nashua railroad company between 1869 and 1892, and from 1893 to 1896 he served as superintendent of the Worcester, Nashua and Portland division. From then on to 1903 he was assistant general manager of the Boston and Maine railroad and in 1903 became a third vice president and general manager. Two years after being elected to this office a unique honor was conferred upon him when he was appointed a member of the permanent American Railway Commission by the International Railway Congress in session in Washington. For his associates there he had such railroad celebrities as Chauncey M. Depew, Thomas N. Ely, Stuyvesant Fish and L. E. Loring. Mr. Barr's career as a railroad man began in 1869 when he began work as a freight and telegraph messenger at Nashua.
Later Mr. Barr it is understood, will be able to resume his duties tomorrow.

STAPLES-GRACE
Well Known Biddford Couple Married in Portsmouth
FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP
Portsmouth and Richards Hige of Newport to Meet Next Saturday

A wedding of much local interest occurred in Portsmouth, N. H., on Wednesday, when Miss Hazel R. Grace, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Grace of upper Main street, became the bride of Albert Staples. The ceremony occurred at 7 o'clock, following which the couple went to the home of Mrs. Lester Armstrong of Portsmouth, a sister of the groom, with whom they visited until Saturday when they returned to this city on the late afternoon train. They will reside at 405 Main street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Staples are well known in this city and Saco, where they have many friends. Mr. Staples is employed on the Laconia division of the Finnerell mills, where he has charge of the night firing. Mrs. Staples was for a time employed at the grocery store on Pool street conducted by the late John S. Grant. She is a grand daughter of Samuel E. Moore of School street.—Biddford Journal.

NEW CARDINALS CONFIRMED BY POPE

Notable Ceremony at Secret Consistory at Rome.

Rome, Nov. 27.—Obedient to a nature of the allocation did not summons from Pope Pius X., the low the pope to refer in such ecclesiastical in Rome assembled in a stastic terms to one particular na-secret consistory today confirmed tion, while so many are represented the papal nomination of nineteen among the new cardinals.

Official visits followed between the diplomats and the cardinal, the aristocracy, the Knights of Malta, of the Roman Catholic Church, high ecclesiastics and many American citizens of the United States. Mgr. John M. Farley, Archbishop of New York; Mgr. William O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, and Mgr. Diomedes, apostolic delegate at Washington. Thus with Cardinal Gibbons America will have now for the first time a representation of four in the cardinalate which probably much as now constituted, will elect a successor to the reigning pontiff. That this duty could not be delayed many years was an unvel-come thought that came on the present occasion to those who had participated in the last previous consistory, four years ago.

AMERICANS FORMALLY NOTIFIED OF ELECTIONS.

Cardinal Folconio Responds—His Address Reflects Attitude of the Pope—O'Connell and Farley Express Their Gratitude.

Many prominent ecclesiastics and Americans witnessed the ceremony that followed when the master of ceremonies was introduced and handed to the new cardinals, Farley, O'Connell and Folconio, the formal notices of their election. At the same time he congratulated each individually. Responding, Cardinal Folconio said:

"I rejoice that it falls upon me as dean to offer our sincerest thanks and most profound homage to his holiness for graciously deigning to raise us, despite our unworthiness, to sublime dignity. Wane by this solemn act the pontiff confers the highest honor upon us in our personal capacity, he also honors the noble, young and powerful nation which is proud of its free institutions. He confers likewise a very great honor on the faithful Catholics of that nation who are truly great and worthy of their high reputation and whose steady progress, under the aegis of same Christian liberty, wins the admiration of all.

"This unique honor which comes to us less by reason of our personal merits than because of the exalted opinion which the noble mind of the pontiff entertains of the flourishing conditions of the Catholic religion in the United States."

Mgr. Folconio concluded his address with renewed thanks to the pope, for whom he expressed a wish that his holiness might have a long and happy reign. Cardinals Farley and O'Connell also express their gratitude.

The speech of Cardinal Folconio is considered as an appendix to the papal allocation, as it is known that it expresses the sentiments of the Holy See toward America. The substance of the speech had been season. But Chance is keeping the agreed upon by the Vatican, as the changes to himself for as yet no one has informed the public just what they will be. One thing is certain and that is he will have to do a lot of hustling and make several changes if he hopes to make the club a factor in the National league pennant race, as the once great machine is badly shattered.

Hal Chase the great first baseman of the New York Americans, can claim his easy disposition for sending him back to the ranks as a player. Chase had some great talent to work with last year on the New York club, but was too easy with the players, and the result is that he was a failure as a manager and made favorites of most of his players. Many managers have done that same thing before, and they always proved failures at handling a club.

The Cincinnati baseball club is still without a manager and Garry Herrigan is just as far away in the choice as he was when Clark Griffith died. Of course the managers are running wild trying the net that is a Reddell, it is such a mild place for a loser. If another man takes a position and makes a failure of it he will be lucky to escape with his life, as the fans out there are crazy to land a pennant and they are good reason for being so, it is a long time since they had a look at a championship team.

It is now up to the football rule committee to get busy and make a few changes in the rules that govern the game at present. The money men which have been so frequent among the big eleven since the present playing rules came into vogue at, far from satisfactory to the fans who are out to see the contests. Under the present playing rules it is a good bet that when two teams which are anywhere nearly equal in playing strength get together, that they will leave the gridiron without a scoring made. The forward pass as used present under the restrictions of a joke as has been proven by the poor success which has followed he play this fall. Then too, ten yards too long a distance to gain a three downs as it is really a case of making it in two tries, for win over a yard to go on the second down a quarterback will usually call for a kick. If the ten-yard rule is to continue four downs should be allowed to make the distance. And his especially true inside the 25-yard line, up against the line of scrimmage. Followers of the gridiron sport like to see a game decided, and decisive games in the contest between the big eleven will be few and far between as long as the present playing rules are allowed to continue.

GIRL PREVENTS WOMAN'S DEATH

Mrs. Roberts' Stepson Could Not Live at Home, He Said

Haverhill, Nov. 27.—Mrs. John W. Roberts tried to end her life by jumping today this evening while standing on Railroad square, but was prevented by Miss Josephine Murphy, a friend, who wrested the bottle away from her after Mrs. Roberts had drank a small portion of the contents.

Mrs. Roberts has an appointment to meet Miss Murphy at the square at the latter had not quit work in a clothing room nearby, and her sister, Miss Margaret Murphy, was talking with Mrs. Roberts.

The latter began talking about her stepson, John W. Roberts Jr., who had figured in a case in the District Court, in which he complained that he was unable to live at home because of his stepmother, Mrs. Roberts. It was said that he was held responsible for the death of his father.

Miss Murphy became alarmed and leaving her companion hastened to a shoe factory nearby and informed her sister, Josephine Murphy, who Mrs. Roberts and as she heard the latter she saw her start to jump.

Josephine grabbed the girl and took it away from her. The struggle between the two women attracted a crowd and men realizing what had happened took Mrs. Roberts to a room nearby and she was later removed to her home on Marion street. A police ambulance, where physicians attended her and found that her condition was not serious.

CASCARETS FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Gently But Thoroughly Cleanse and Regulate Your Stomach, Liver and Bowels While You Sleep

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach; the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating, flatulency, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means indigestion, a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they cure indigestion, because they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach and bowels are ended forever. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

AN ADMIRER OF WU TING-FANG

Inasmuch as Hon. Wu Ting-fang, the exceptionally popular former ambassador to the United States from the Flowery Kingdom, is very much in the limelight at the present time and may, in the near future, be acclaimed the George Washington of the Celestial Empire, Chronicle readers generally will be interested in the fact that the great Chinese statesman has a warm admirer and steadfast friend in Col. D. C. Pavey, formerly of this city, and a well known Civil War veteran, who contributes to the Chronicle details of a personal character respecting Dr. Wu, gleaned from him in friendly intercourse covering his diplomatic career in this country.

"In the first place," says Colonel Pavey, "I would set people right in regard to his name. He writes H. Wu Tingfang, the last syllable being pronounced as if spelled fong. In pronouncing the Ting-fang would be compounded thus, but in writing he runs the two syllables together, as I have shown. Unlike most noted Chinamen his mastery of English, pure and unadorned, made him heartily welcome everywhere and in Washington's official and social circles he was far and away, one of the most popular men of his day. On his well remembered visit to Harvard University he was shown every attention and by Dr. Eliot was considered one of the ablest and most agreeable diplomats he had ever to any one day; why not do it every day?

a promonition of what was coming, politically in China, and while generally the shrewdest and most non-committal statesman I ever met in my newspaper career dating back to 1867, he was at the same time politely communicative. Respecting international politics he was an absorber of the highest degree and in personal matters was ever an animated interrogator.

mark. In a conversation one day respecting the dowager empress, Tsi-An, the most remarkable female politician in Oriental history, he said to me: 'You know that she is a Manchou of Manchous and that the Manchou dynasty has been enthroned in China for a period long antedating the birth of the United States—two hundred and seventy years to be exact. As Chinese Ambassador I am supposed to represent the ruling dynasty but do you know that, correctly speaking, all Chinamen are not Chinamen? While both Manchous and Chinese are of the Mongol type, and to the average foreigner look alike, there's really as much difference between them as between the inhabitants of any two of the Latin countries of Southern Europe. While the Manchous are in the saddle, so to speak, there's no love lost between the Manchou and the Chinese man. And in a not remote future his fact may be better understood. Mind you, I do not say will be, but may be.

"In the capital of China, as in most of the other cities, there's a Manchou, or Tartar, quarter and a native, or Chinese, quarter, and the spirit of comradeship between the people of these two quarters is distinctly lacking. I can best illustrate the existing feeling by likening it to a sort of continuous calm preceding a tornado or some other convulsion of nature. Serious trouble between these two distinct races may not come in your day or mine, and for obvious reasons I do not pose as a political prophet."

"Much more of interest I gleaned from Dr. Wu, but I fear I have already overstayed the indulgence of your readers. I had an exceptionally interesting correspondence with the distinguished Chinaman covering most of his ambassadorial career in Washington and submit the following letter, out of many likely to interest your readers:

Chinese Legation, Washington, July 18, 1909.

My dear Colonel Pavey:

I have received your letter of the 1st inst., and am glad to note that recent events have in no way affected the views you have entertained for the last thirty years respecting the necessity for the exercise of the best judgment, the wisest statesmanship and the broadest reasonable toleration in dealing with the Chinese. I wish there were more Americans who hold the same views as you do. But it is gratifying to know that you, at least, have used your influence to promote the friendly relations between the two countries.

Very truly yours,

WU TING-FANG.

"About his time I asked Dr. Wu for his autographed photograph for my collection of representative men, past and present. In complying with my request he wrote a pleasant letter concluding with this postscript: 'I would thank you to send me yours in return.' Of course I felt highly honored, and lost no time in meeting his wishes, as the following will show:

Chinese Legation, Washington, Aug. 1, 1909.

My dear Colonel Pavey:

I am in receipt of your letter of the 26th ultimo, and also your autographed photograph, which came a few days ago. Please accept my sincere thanks.

Yours truly,

WU TING-FANG.

EXETER

COFFEE HEART

As Dangerous as the Tobacco or Whiskey Heart

"Coffee heart" is common to many coffee users and is liable to send the owner to his other long home if the drug is persisted in. You can run 30 or 40 yards and find out if your heart is troubled. A lady who was once a victim of the "coffee heart" writes from Oregon:

"I have been a habitual user of coffee all my life and have suffered very much in recent years from ailments which I became satisfied were directly due to the poison in the beverage, such as torpid liver and indigestion, which in turn made my complexion blotchy and muddy.

"Then my heart became affected. It would beat most rapidly just after I drank my coffee, and so below normal as the coffee effect wore off. Sometimes my pulse would go as high as 137 beats to the minutes. My family were greatly alarmed at my condition and at last mother persuaded me to begin the use of Postum.

"I gave up coffee entirely and absolutely, and made Postum my sole table beverage. This was 6 months ago, and all my ills, the indigestion, torpid liver and crickety heart action have passed away, and my complexion has become clear and natural. The improvement set in very soon after I made the change, just as soon as the coffee poison had time to work out of my system.

"My husband has also been greatly benefited by the use of Postum, and we find that a simple breakfast with Postum is as satisfying and more strengthening than the old heavier meal we used to have with coffee."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pink.

to send out the bags for the Thanksgiving contribution for the Cottage hospital, but the committee desires that the contribution will be just as liberal through another method. The former custom was to distribute bags to the different houses, and many were also sent out of town, these being filled and sent to the hospital. It is thus hoped that those who were in the spirit of helping the good cause will contribute just as freely, as the supplies of groceries, vegetables and various other articles will be greatly missed if discontinued.

An alarm of fire was rung in Sunday night shortly after 8 o'clock for a chimney fire in the house occupied by John Burdham and owned by the academy on Gilman lane. It was shortly extinguished, and the damage was comparatively slight. The alarm was sounded from box 45.

The first of a two night's entertainment by the St. Michael's society was held last evening in the town hall, and the program took the form of a minstrel show, the men appearing in black faces and white linen, and the ladies in white face and black linen. The end men were Charles D. Boyers and Emmanuel Gallant, homes, and Thomas McLaughlin, and Harris J. McClure, lampas, and the interlocutor was John Graham. The chorus was composed of thirteen members, the arrangements being made by Dr. J. B. Keefe, who was also piano accompanist. The program consisted of eight numbers. Music was furnished by the Columbian orchestra, which will also furnish the music for the dancing this evening, and the entertainment will be a cantata.

At the November meeting of the First Parish Men's Club, held last evening at the lecture room of the First Congregational church, Walter M. Gallant gave a talk on "Silk Manufacture from the Silk Worm to the Philadelphia Product." Mr. Gallant is the superintendent of the silk department of the Newmarket mills.

Capt. "Belle" Hart and "Sam" White, both of the champion Princeton football team, spent Sunday in town but were obliged to leave Monday morning, without speaking to the undergraduates here. Both are Exeter alumni and will return later to speak to the students. White is probably talked about nearly as much here as he is in Princeton, and a strange fact is that he was not on the eleven, while a student in Exeter. He was, however, on the baseball nine for two years.

Frank C. Higgins has returned from an automobile trip south, having here last week with Fred Tuck, formerly of Kingston. He went as far south as Richmond, Va., and Tuck will go to Richmond, Va., and spend the winter in the south.

Arthur S. French reports that he saw a large buck in a meadow near the Hampton line last Sunday. It was a large buck and must have weighed 300 pounds. A strange fact is that he saw the animal on two Sundays in the same place and near by at the same time. It appears that the deer are getting plenty in this section and the law goes off on Friday of this week.

Harmony in the House? Yes, by upon the basis of Bryanism. Such in substance, as Mr. Bryan's declaration of the Commager. Speaker is criticized for lack of progressiveness and a sort of advertisement inserted for a new leader. No man is suggested for the honor.

Mr. Bryan should not be too exacting. He ought to be a fair judge of a House situation, and the present situation should recall to him one he personally knew as a member of the House nearly twenty years ago.

At that time the tariff as now was the leading issue. The democratic party then as now, was divided on it. Judge Crisp, a conservative revisionist, was in the chair. W. L. Wilson, an extreme tariff-for-revenue only, was leader on the floor.

This made a compromise tariff measure necessary. Had the Speaker insisted on a measure to meet his views fully, Mr. Wilson could not have continued in his post. Had Mr. Wilson insisted on a measure to meet his views fully the matter would have been failed then and there. No such bill could have been passed through the House.

The compromise effected, however, was not well drawn. The Senate, which had a very small democratic majority did not like it and Mr. Tamm, his party's leader there, was able to pick the House measure to pieces, and did it so ruthlessly a tremendous row followed. At the next election the democracy was snowed under.

Mr. Bryan as a member subscribed to the compromise the House made in the first place and then was forced to accept the action of the Senate in compromising the compromise. Although a low tariff man, he could see that the question was a compromise bill, or no bill at all, and he acted in favor of half a loaf, and promise of nearly twenty years ago, called, Mr. Bryan is justified in warning against a compromise now, the ready to that is that no legislation of any House and ask himself if some a dignified nature is compromise. The advance should not be made for test of a leader, or of a party, is in the shaping of a compromise. It was not compromise that defeated the democracy under Mr. Cleveland, but the bungling character of the compromise effected. Mr. Clark and his friends in the House may be able to do better. At any rate, they must try. Washington Star.

American Treasurer General of Persia, Whose Dismissal Is Desired by Russia.

W. Morgan Shuster, with several American assistants, has been in Persia since last May assisting the government in an attempt to reorganize the finances of the empire. He had previously done important reorganization work in the Philippines for the American government. There has been no suggestion that Mr. Shuster is in any way unfit for the place, and Russia's objection and hostility to him are open to a suspicion that she may be endeavoring to prevent the rehabilitation of Persia's affairs with an ulterior object in view.

Now, don't wait a year for another New Hampshire advertising day. There are seven days in each week, and every one of them is an appropriate day for advertising. New Hampshire—Manchester Union.
That's the spirit! Keep up the good work the year round and effectually silence the knockers.

The newspapers through the country that are declaring "Maine is still dry," ought to add the saving clause, "in spots."—Boston Globe.
Evidence of its dryness can be seen every day at the Boston and Maine railroad station in this city, when truck loads of the ardent are shipped to various points in the dry state. It would seem as though many "pink teas" are held even if there is a drought in certain localities.

The irresponsible person can be found in every community and is not considered by his fellow men as much of an asset. His name on the back of a note will not help you to get it discounted at the bank. If he promises to pay next week what he on hand to perform the work you desire the chances are that he will have gone somewhere else. If he promises to pay next week what he owes you it probably means never. If he promises to send your name for confirmation to a lucrative office you desire, you read in the next day's newspaper that some other person has been appointed to the place. Not to multiply examples he is a disappointing person, and as he becomes known he loses the respect and esteem of his fellowmen though he is often such a plausible fellow that everybody likes him and forgives his faults which are so provoking but simply no malice. Irresponsibility is a vice which is not heinous like crime nor disgusting like vices of drunkenness or licentiousness, but is often joined with a very genial temper and genial manners. Still it is a vice and is by all so reckoned.

The time has again approached when the turkey looks into the calendar and murmurs, "I will not live in ways." In connection it is well to remember that while charity begins at home, we are surrounded by opportunities to do good to others which if taken advantage of will give returns that are incapable of being measured in the coin of the realm. The consciousness of having filled an empty stomach with the viands of reason, driven the burden of sorrow from one's heart by the pouring of gladness is far preferable to find gold. We have come through a decade of the spirit of the day to associate Thanksgiving with a day of gormandizing and gluttony preceded by chicken shoots and turkey raffles, and followed by a day of judiciousness and depression. One of those professional estimators has figured it out that the turkey that will be sacrificed upon the Thanksgiving altar this year would make a line reaching from San Francisco to New York and from New York back to Chicago, or figured in pounds would weigh 54,000 pounds. The person who can see nothing else in the season to be thankful for can be thankful that he does not have to eat them all.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The United States and Canada
The Canadian parliament is in session and Premier Borden and former Premier Laurier are "at it" in sharp style. One of the subjects of discussion is the rejection of the reciprocity pact with the United States, which Laurier seems to fear has impaired, or may impair, the good feeling long existing in this country toward Canada.

The defeat statesman is mistaken. There has been no such effect, and none such is likely. We have praised matters at about their proper value. As a fact, the Canadians are not alone in their excitability in campaign times over questions, imaginary or real, of national pride. Appeals shrewdly made on that score work with us to a marked degree. Tell the average American that a policy under discussion would not only injure the country's trade but threaten its political integrity, and if in the flurry created he is impressed, he is certain to vote against that policy.

Some bitter things against the United States were spoken by the conservative spellbinders during the reciprocity campaign. They represented us as a rude and crude people, powerful in numbers and wealth but unscrupulous in action and dangerous to know too intimately. The Canadian electorate was told that many brought me great relief and I trust had us by the throat, that everything was for the rich and that only an armed revolt could bring about the change demanded.

The talk was severe and absurd, but we had brought the charge on ourselves. There was American non-doodle as authority for every word spoken across the border. When we are in a tussle among ourselves over policies of speech. No word ever uttered against this government by any foreigner anywhere has exceeded in violence words of condemnation uttered by Americans themselves.

It is quite unlikely that reciprocity with the United States was killed in Canada by the recent result at the polls. The subject is bound to come up again, and the next time it will be shorn of the annexation boggy.

We need not doubt that Canada will follow with interest the tariff debates of the coming session of Congress, and carefully note whatever may be said or done. The Payne law, if successfully tackled, will be revised in only a few schedules; but much may be drawn from what is done to them to indicate what revision when fully carried out will mean to all outsiders as respects American markets. THE TRUE TEST

Tried in gPortsmouth It Has Stood the Test

The hardest test is the test of time and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Portsmouth. Kidney sufferers hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:
Clinton R. Hurd 138 Hill street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I have no hesitation in verifying the statement I gave for publication in 1905, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, as the cure they effected has been permanent. I suffered from sharp pains in my back and was often unable to arise from a chair without assistance. I felt tired all the time and there was soreness across my loins. The contents of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, obtained at Philbrick's Pharmacy, brought me great relief and I continued taking this remedy until I was cured. I now recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity."

Messrs. Editors:—This seems to be a proper time to inform those persons who seldom or never shovel off the snow from the sidewalks, that it should be done. The first snow has come, and many persons having neglected to remove it, it has become a decided nuisance. Such persons should be waited upon by the proper authorities. The beginning of the snow season is the proper time to commence operations, for if the first snow is allowed to remain it is much harder to remove that which falls subsequently. We hope to see this matter attended to. Snow Shovel.

the balance of parties a year ago. It is significant of acute conditions that Senator La Follette announced his intention of leaving Washington immediately after the opening days to wage actively his campaign for the Republican nomination for President. He will cover all the Middle West on the stump.

With this demonstration in progress outside, such calmness as may have been recovered from the conflicts of the special session is not likely to remain undisturbed. The insurgent Republicans hold the balance of power in the Senate and the Democrat in the House. It will be interesting to forecast, if possible, the measure of success which Mr. Taft will be able to secure for the measures of which he stands sponsor. There are complications in sight. It is reported, apparently on authority from the White House, that the President will avoid starting the expected row over the wool schedules of the tariff by any recommendations in his opening message, but will hold it off awaiting developments.—Boston Post.

Parcels Post and Economy

Now the express companies are taking their turn at being investigated, and there are already signs that the revelations of the costly burden these companies are to the public, since they are permitted to perform at highly profitable rates a service which logically belongs to the Post office Department, will inspire public opinion to demand the parcels post to displace them.

Testimony presented yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission tends to show that such a change would not only lower the rates of transportation on all parcels and so help to lower the living cost, but also do away altogether with the possibility of a deficit in the Postal Department. If the government should take over the express companies and conduct them as branches of the postal system—providing the government secured the same terms from the railroads as those now enjoyed by the express companies—the saving to the public would be enormous. Representative Lewis stated yesterday that the government, because it pays a certain tariff per pound on mail matter, while the express companies pay a contract price and pile on as big loads as possible, was charged an average of four cents a pound by railroads, while the express companies are charged an average of only three-fourths of a cent a pound. There is no reason why the government should not obtain as reasonable terms for a parcels post service, and by running the business at cost there being no need of earning princely dividends, give the public cheaper as well as vastly more convenient service.—Springfield News.

THANKSGIVING

Recipes and Poetry Applicable to the Season

THE TURKEY
The Pilgrims in their frugal living Found turkeys wild, and gave Thanksgiving.

King of all birds the turkey still stands To best fulfill the day's demands.

Weight
Old records say that forty pounds, (Tis no fish story, though it sounds A trifle large) was the true weight Of turkeys wild, and records great. A turkey should be young, not tough. Five persons find ten pounds enough.

How to Select
A turkey's age is oft'nest shown At the small end of the breast bone. This should be pliable or you Will find your turkey hard to chew. With leg scales much like armor plain His age needs veneration great. If feet too hard and stiff are found, He's tough as tripe, you may be bound.

Seek for the flexible breast bone, Elastic scales and feet be shown. See that he's plump and fresh and sweet And you will have a royal treat. —Uncle Joel. (Walter B. Guild.)

Preparing the Oven

While the selection is poetic, to poorly cook would be pathetic and so at this point we refer to Mrs. Alice Whitaker.

Since the turkey well and be sure to take out the lungs, which lie in the cavities near the back bone and also do not overlook the windpipe. Take off all superfluous fat, cut out the oil pot and after all the pinfeathers are taken out remove the tendons of the legs, unless you can persuade the marketman to do it for you. If you must do it, have the feet cut of an inch and a half below the joint and then pick and draw out the sight of more tendons with a steel skewer. Leave the extra piece of the leg on below the joint until the turkey is baked then snap it off; this will leave the joint more slightly than if the leg was cut off at first. Rinse the turkey well inside and out and hang up to drip. Clean the giblets and put them on to cook in boiling water. Cut well down into the liver when taking out the gall, remove the clot of blood from the heart and scrape and rinse the gizzard well. Stuff the turkey sew and skewer into shape and tie the legs close to the body with strings. Cover the rest with butter creamed with little less than its measure of flour; this mixture spread on like a paste will become frothy and crust when the birds is baked and given it a most appetizing appearance.

Roasting

Bake the turkey about two and a half hours, basting often, with butter and water until there is liquid enough in the pan for basting. The turkey should be placed on a rack and the pan dredged with flour. Have the oven moderate in order not to burn the skin before the cooking has been completed in the thicker portions of the flesh.

Cracker Stuffing for Turkey

Roll enough crackers fine to make two cups and mix with one-half cup of butter and one and one-half cups of hot milk. Season with a level teaspoon of salt, a saltspoon of pepper and a rounding teaspoon of powdered sage. Add a well beaten egg and mix well. Put most of the stuffing through the neck into the breast, which should be left whole.

While the above rule is sufficient for many, especially if there are no children at table, who almost universally delight in larger quantities of stuffing, in every sense of the word I should incline to increase the amount very materially for a fair sized turkey.

Uncle Joel who was once a boy, and has not yet outgrown his recollections of the turkey, says: "If you're gonter stuff it, stuff."

For twice too much ain't half enough. As a child I never had any to much of the good turkey dressing and neither used to stretch the bird by filling every part as full as possible so safely sew together and occasionally a very little was left to bake in a little ball in the roasting pan, beside the turkey.

Chestnut Stuffing

Use the large chestnuts called the French chestnut. Cook one and one-half pints in boiling water until tender. Shell and press through a vegetable ricer. Season with two rounding tablespoons of butter, saltspoon of pepper, a level teaspoon of salt and four tablespoons of cream. Now add a cup of fine cracker crumbs and one quarter cup of melted butter. Never put poultry seasoning or sweet herbs into a chestnut dressing. Giblet Sauce
When the giblets are partly cook-

REVENGE FOR RUINED LIFE

Lawrence Woman Kills Man Because of Whom She Was Divorced

Cleveland, Nov. 27.—A woman of 4710 Woodland avenue was shot and killed at noon today by Mrs. Rose Devorkin of Lawrence, Mass., as he was passing 46th street on Woodland avenue.

The woman surrendering confessed her crime, according to the police, and said she did the killing in revenge for a ruined life.

According to the story she told at the 3d Precinct Police station she came to Cleveland to kill Horovitz, arriving Thursday night.

She followed him two days, but did not find the opportunity she sought. Today at noon she saw him enter a Woodland avenue butcher shop. He soon came out and as he reached 46th street she came up behind him and as he whirled, shot him just above the right eye. Then she stood with the smoking revolver in her hand and watched as he lay dying.

The cause, the police say she told them, lay in the development of a friendship that began when she was a girl in her teens. She was married when she was 18, but she declared that Horovitz had pursued her with his attentions.

Four months ago she said her husband came to Cleveland. Here he met Horovitz and learned the story of her youth. For three months a quarrel raged between herself and her husband. The end came and she started for Cleveland to avenge what she called her wrong. Her husband having been given a church divorce because of Horovitz.

The woman is small and frail. She is 32 years old, she says, and the mother of four children. Horovitz was 40 and had a wife and five children. His wife passed while his giving. Tel. 142. C&H2t body lay in the street waiting for a dead wagon.

"That looks like my man, it's the same kind of a coat he wears," she said pushing through the crowd, but a friend led her away before she had discovered the identity. The tragedy was revealed to her half an hour later.

THE BEST YET

A Big Audience Appreciates the Strong Bill at Music Hall

One of the largest and most appreciative audiences witnessed the vaudeville and motion pictures at Music Hall last evening where an excellent program was presented.

The vaudeville being headed by "The Blind Thatcher" assisted by "The Regina" in a refined musical act. Mr. Thatcher is a blind man having lost his sight in early life, but what he has been deprived of in one sense he has been gifted in another for the way he plays the different musical instruments is remarkable. One of the many features of the act is the singing of "The Holy City," by "The Regina" accompanied by Mr. Thatcher on the Musical Bells. The act is one of the best musical acts ever presented in our city and should not be missed.

William Valley, who is booked as The Dancing Violinist was well received and pleased all by her dancing the various national dances.

Beatrice Drew in her impersonation of Billy Hoover, "The Original Drunk" was well applauded and responded to several encores.

The picture program was excellent as usual. The feature picture being "Home" a story of real Thanksgiving.

WITCHCRAFT IN SCOTLAND.

Beatrice Layng's Fate at the Hands of the Mob in 1705.

That belief in witchcraft and brutal treatment of alleged witches once owned large in Scotland is shown in Stewart Dick's "The Pageant of the North." In 1705 Bannockburn gained unenviable notoriety from a series of prosecutions of old women, and the pamphleteers of the day were kept busy on both sides in defending and denouncing the action of the magistrates. The author says:

"It seems that a blacksmith, one Patrick Morton, being taken ill, declared that he was bewitched, and on his instigation a number of old women were thrown into prison. Bullied by the magistrates and ministers of the town by day and tortured by their guards by night, who never let them sleep, but kept them awake by pricking them with pins, these miserable old women were soon induced to confess anything."

"One woman in particular, Beatrice Layng, had been singled out by Morton for his special vengeance. He said that she came asking him to make some nails for her. He, believing they were for some evil purpose, refused to do so, and she went off muttering imprecations. When he fell ill she was heard to say, 'He might blame his own tongue for his ill.' On this issue of irrefragable she was imprisoned, and practically under torture she acknowledged to the magistrates and ministers that she had made a wax image of Morton and stuck pins in it."

"After a long period of judicial bullying she was set free, or in other words, handed over to the mob to work their will on her. Hanged on a rope between a ship and the shore, she was pelted with stones till half dead and finally pressed to death under a door. It seems that in those days no one was safe against the wildest accusations which might be brought against him."

Civilization.

A Japanese diplomatist is said to have exclaimed: "For 2,000 years we kept peace with the rest of the world and were known to it but by the marvels of our delicate ethereal art and the finely wrought productions of our ingenious handicrafts, and we were accounted barbarians. But from the day on which we made war on other nations and killed many thousands of our adversaries you at once admit our claim to rank among civilized nations."

On reading the foregoing in the Java Times we are reminded of Professor Kenny's story of the shipwrecked mariner who at dawn came across a gibbet and exclaimed, "Thank God, here is a sign of civilization!"—London Globe.

In his early days railway traveling was a much less formal affair than now. One night, back in the sixties, the guard of the last train leaving Bangor was reminded by an irate passenger that it was some minutes past the starting time. "Oh, are," replied the man, "but Steeple, K. has a dinner party the night, and I'm just going him two or three months' privilege."

WANT NATION TO PAY FOR IT

Naval Officers Now Uphold the Country's Dignity Themselves

Washington, Nov. 27.—Explaining that it has long been recognized as a crying injustice to higher ranking naval officers that they are compelled to spend a part of their pay or entertainment for no other purpose than to uphold the government's dignity, Secretary of the Navy Meyer made a public section of his annual report today in which he recommends that each commander in chief and officers acting singly have a fixed sum to draw upon for official entertainments.

"In all nations except our," says Mr. Meyer, "it is recognized that entertainments to uphold the dignity of the nation and for its benefit should be paid for by the nation and not by the individual officers out of his own pocket."

Far-reaching and beneficial effects in the belief of the secretary would be obtained from the enactment of a law for the creating of a national defense, and he strongly urges the passage of the bill presented to congress last winter. The council, it is proposed, would consist of the secretaries of war and the navy, the chairman of the military and naval committees of the senate and house, the chief of staff of the army, a naval officer designated by the department and the presidents of the army and navy war colleges.

As an adjunct of national defense says Secretary Meyer the proposed law is very desirable in that it would be possible to formulate and carry out a consistent and continuous policy. It would help to co-operate the plans of the army and navy, and by having the co-operation of the committee in congress instructed with the scrutiny of the expenditures, it would reconcile the different interests involved before submitting to the President and congress estimates for national defense involving expenditures.

REBELS BOMBARDING NANKING

The Government Stronghold Being Surrounded and Fierce Fighting Reported.

Nov. 27.—Fierce fighting between the rebels and the government forces in Nanking, the ancient city of China, is reported today. The rebels have been attacking the city from both land and sea. It is anticipated that the city will soon be in their hands.

More than half a century ago the hills overlooking the city of Nanking, the ancient city of China, were the scene of a battle between the Manchus and the Chinese. The Manchus were determined to take the strong city, and the Chinese were determined to defend it. The Manchus were victorious, and the city has since been a part of the Chinese empire.

The Manchus are now attacking the city from both land and sea. They have been attacking the city for several days, and the fighting has been very fierce. The Manchus are now surrounded by the Chinese forces, and it is expected that they will soon be defeated.

is influenced by two different kinds of organizations. The first may be designated as the vocational societies such as the Agricultural Club, the Engineering Society and the Alpha Chi Sigma, or Chemical Society. In these societies students read papers, have debates and hear lectures from practical men. The second may be designated as the avocational organizations, such as the Social Committee, the College Club, the orchestra and the gym club.

This social committee is composed of two members from each of the classes, three members from the faculty and two of the faculty ladies. This committee regulates the social affairs of the college and is supported financially by annual subscriptions of twenty-five cents from the students and the faculty. Their policy is to have an informal dance once a month in the gymnasium and to furnish the orchestra with what music it needs during the year. The members of the committee take turns in running these dances. The College Club, has a splendidly furnished room, where mass meetings are held in the interest of athletic teams. The room is well patronized afternoons between four and six during the winter months. An upright piano presented by the alumni is left in almost constant use and is of great help to the students in learning college songs and selections from the operas. The college orchestra, of eleven pieces, boasts to be one of the best college orchestras in New England. This year they are making a specialty of concert work and are giving high class programs.

MAKE GOOD AS SHOP GIRLS

Class Presidents Kept Busy Shining Shoes

Wellesley, Nov. 27.—When class presidents had skinned, shined the last pair of shoes and the last of 50 fancy articles made by Ex-Pres Caroline Hazard had found a ready sale in the largest fair that Wellesley College girls had ever conducted and graduated car satisfied themselves this evening the fund for a $10000 students building.

Like a department store entering particularly a women was the building fund fair which was liberally patronized by students, alumnae and invited guests from the time the doors were opened until they were closed at 9 o'clock tonight. The fair committee and that the novel fair will not be a financial failure.

Class officers of departments in charge of various departments and in charge of the fair were: Miss Barbara Hagan, in charge of the fine shining shoes; Miss Helen Ross '12, in charge of the fine shining shoes; Miss Helen Ross '12, in charge of the fine shining shoes; Miss Helen Ross '12, in charge of the fine shining shoes.

All manner of good things were collected for Wellesley girls, who looked to the forum-telling booth where Miss Barbara Hagan, in charge of the fine shining shoes, provided a satisfactory forecast of pleasant personal affairs.

Student organizations assisted the fair in various departments. WATCHING AN AEROPLANE IN FLIGHT

CAVALRYMAN PICKING UP A BOMB DROPPED BY AIRMAN

ARAB'S FIRING ON ITALIAN MILITARY AERONAUT

When the Italian army aeroplane first made a flight over Tripoli the Arabs were awed, but it was not long before they realized that this new agent of warfare had to be reckoned with and took to firing upon the air men. The use of aeroplanes in this war has proved their success for such purposes, and all the military powers of the world are expected to pay attention to their necessity for scouting purposes and for bomb throwing.

Tripp '13, Olive Tripp '13, Elizabeth McManis '14, Silence McVey '15 and Penrice Van Dyke '15 are listed on the committee that since last spring had been busy making preparations for Wellesley's biggest and most successful charity sale.

It was estimated tonight that proceeds of the sale will bring the amount raised for the student building to more than $25,000 a quarter of the required amount.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES

Tugs are Safe
The Navy Department today was advised of the arrival at Guantanamo of the naval tug Norfolk, supposed to have been disabled at sea. The naval tug Uncas, also supposed to have been adrift, is now reported safe and is expected to arrive at Guantanamo tomorrow or next day. She is being conveyed by the collier Ajax.

Will Inspect Lumber
Chief Carpenter M. B. Pollock will leave on Wednesday for Richmond, Vt., where he will inspect a shipment of lumber to be purchased by the navy department.

A Costly Craft
The navy department appears to be having no end of trouble with the Scorpion, the station ship at Constantinople. The vessel recently repaired at a large expense at Trieste, Austria, under contract, is still in bad shape and her commander, W. E. Crosby, reports that on account of her boilers she cannot return to her station.

At Odds Over Property
The government and the owners of land at Kittery are said to be still at odds over the property necessary for an approach to the new combined bridge and that the government may be obliged to act under condemnation proceedings.

Work Will Continue
The fact that the gunboat Marietta will be in reserve for some time will not interfere with the work planned on the ship which is progressing according to the survey.

Expects Sea Duty
Paymaster Manning H. Philbrick will shortly be detached from duty at the general store here and ordered to sea duty. It is understood he will be assigned to the scout cruiser Salem.

Vessel Movements
Arrived—De Long at Charleston, Peoria, Waban and Eagle at Guantanamo, Montgomery at Pensacola, Chester at Gibraltar, Cincinnati at Honolulu, Washington at Santo Domingo City.

Sailed—Abarenda, from Shanghai for Manila; Patuxent and Potomac from Pensacola for Key West; Oregon from Santa Cruz for Tuboron; MacDonough and Wilkes, from Morehead City for Charleston; Justice, from San Diego for Mare Island; Utah, from Boston for Hampton Roads.

WARREN ARRESTED

He is Charged by County Authorities with Assault on Oscar Clark

On Monday afternoon County Solicitor Ernest L. Guptill, Sheriff George Spinney and Deputy Wilbur B. Shaw went to South Hampton and arrested Edgar M. Warren for an aggravated assault committed on Nov. 10 on Oscar Clark.

It is alleged that Warren and Clark quarreled over money matters and that the former beat and kicked the latter so that he was in an insensible condition for nearly 24 hours. Warren was arraigned before a trial justice and on the evidence presented held in $400 for the April term of the superior court.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Editor Herald:—Advertising day in the Granite State is the day for all people interested in the states future development to come to the front with facts, and get the other people interested in these facts and bring about good results for all.

There is a matter of local interest surely which should be brought before us, "The price of gas in Portsmouth." $1.50 a thousand feet with ten per cent off for cash on or before the tenth of the month making $1.25 thousand feet.

At the present time Lynn pays 90 cent for same amount and are fighting the Gas company there for 60 cent gas, claiming there is money in it at 60 cents per thousand feet and the Gas company are willing to make it 75 cents. Haverhill and Somersworth now pay 90, why can't gas be furnished in Portsmouth as cheap as any of the places named.

Goal is unloaded from a boat on Gas from her late home in Kittery, Nev. company's wharf here, while Somersworth, H. H. Macy of Laconia officiating, worth, Haverhill and other places York Rebekah Lodge, No. 3, also have to pay a rail rate and a rate read for unloading in addition to what is charged for coal there and still sell 2000 feet of coal nearly as cheap as 1000 can be purchased here.

It surely looks to the writer that the Portsmouth Gas company cannot get a bigger netton each year (in proportion to its size) than the Standard Oil or Steel Trust.

PEOPLE OF PORTSMOUTH playgrounds on Thanksgiving morning wake up and demand cheaper gas, ing. It must come. KICK FOR IT.

It surely looks to the writer that the Portsmouth Gas company cannot get a bigger netton each year (in proportion to its size) than the Standard Oil or Steel Trust.

PEOPLE OF PORTSMOUTH playgrounds on Thanksgiving morning wake up and demand cheaper gas, ing. It must come. KICK FOR IT.

Col. William H. Carter of Salem Mass., was here today on business. William H. Meehan has secured a position on the navy yard in the coppersmith's department.

The wedding of Miss Florence F. Jewett of Wellington street, and Mr. Ralph W. Knox of Boston, a native of Portsmouth is to take place at the home of the bride on Tuesday noon, December 5.

We have just received for Thanksgiving a carefully selected line of the following: Malaga raisins, Malpich out your turkey and get first-class grapes mixed nuts, California cheese? We have plenty for all, (but) Budded walnuts, candied orange and they are going fast). Nice young lemon peel, citron, layer figs, dates, once plump and tender. Also native oranges, grape fruit, Drake's pound cake, fancy crackers, monogram butter.

Goods delivered.

Emerson Pianos.

There are some good points about most pianos and about that. Pianos are like people—some folks are pleasant company for a short time, others improve upon acquaintance. As a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, neither is a piano to be judged by one or two good qualities. It is the union of the important parts of a piano that settles its value. The EMERSON PIANO has no weak spots. It is an all-round honest instrument. It is like an old friend—tried and not found wanting.
